DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 1 and 11 are objected to because of the following informalities:
2. Claim 1 as written is awkward. Examiner suggests the claim be re-written for clarity.
3. Claim 11 is ambiguous. It is not clear whether an X-ray source is being claimed or a transmission window.
4. The claims have not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the claims.
5. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

7. Claims 1, 2 and 10-12 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bachmann et al. (U.S. Patent Application Publication 2002/0048345).

9. As per claims 1, 2 and 10, Bachmann et al. disclose a method of manufacturing a window (3), comprising the steps of: providing on a surface of a carrier element (2) a window foil (1), the surface of the carrier element having a receiving area, receiving a soldering material (4); the soldering material (4) fixing the window foil (1) to the carrier element (2); the carrier element (2) further comprising a through hole (5) for the transmission of electrons; placing the window foil (1) on top of the surface and heating the soldering material (4) to affix the window foil (1) to the surface (see Fig. 1, shown above; see also para. [0013]).

10. As per claims 11-12, Bachmann et al. disclose a window further comprising: an X-ray device (20), having an electron source (23), a target (22) and window (3); the window (3) being located between the electron source (23) and target (22) – (see Fig. 8, shown above; see also para. [0037]).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

11. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

12. Claims 3-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bachmann et al. (U.S. Patent Application Publication 2002/0048345).

13. As per claims 3-9, Bachmann et al. disclose a method of manufacturing a window as recited in claim 1 but do not explicitly disclose a window wherein: the receiving area comprises grooves, having a semi-circular cross section; wherein the receiving area is ablated, so that the carrier element has an inclined surface with a height decreasing from the through hole to an edge; wherein the receiving area comprises a channel and wherein the carrier element further comprises top and bottom carrier elements. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the method (and window) of Bachmann et al. such that it incorporated the aforementioned limitations. One would have been motivated to make such a modification for the purpose of improving the window's structural rigidity and component adhesion, as suggested by Bachmann et al. (see paras. [0016-0019]).
